Muskan drive on to bring 'muskan' in every Arunachalee

ITANAGAR, Apr 26: The members of Muskan Welfare Society (MWS) led by its president Anupama Singh have decided to take up tree plantations, blood donation camps and workshop on women and children in the next six months.

In its general body meeting here today, displaying dedication and philanthropic approach, the members also decided to take up English teaching and basic computer training for women along with many women and children target initiatives.

Singh exhorting her team members said, our main endeavour always remains the same, that is, to bring constructive change in the socio-economic sector of every rural populace and our focus is always there for better healthcare and education. Whatever may be the case, we really want to bring a 'Muskan' in every Arunachalee, she added.

Taking part in the discussion, Swati Sharma, Special Secretary, state govt, freelance journalist Mamang Dai, Oju Mission chairperson Binny Yanga, Papum Pare DC Nandini Paliwal and others called for more membership drive, fund drive, follow up for Bal Bhawan and Old Age Home.

Earlier, MWS secretary Mamta Riba briefed on the activities of the Society, which includes, safai abhiyan, heart surgeries, tree plantation, adventure trips and childcare initiative.

Interacting with the members of the MWS, on the sidelines of the general body meeting, State Governor, Gen (Retd) J J

Singh congratulated the members for carrying out commendable works for the people. You are the team who will make a difference and you have already made difference, he said. "Spread of cancer awareness amongst the rural community in the state was very effectively done. You can really improve the Arunachalee society", Gen Singh added.

Congratulating them for the plantation programme as part of 'Clean and Green Arunachal' initiative, the Governor urged upon them to ensure that every child in the state is given a quality sapling of good indigenous species and plant it and look after it. As we have around lakh students, addition of one lakh new plants to 'Green Arunachal' would be the best gift towards the state, he felt.

Encouraging the members to work for preservation of indigenous culture, Gen Singh said, you should ensure that younger generations do not lose their cultural roots, which is required for their strong foundation. (PRO)
