Festivals are an important part of social activities of man. They are meant to rejoice special moments and emotions in our lives with our loved ones. They play an important role to connect to our social life, and link us with our past and backgrounds. Despite the fact that some celebrations are special to specific areas and some are celebrated only by certain groups and communities, on the whole, the festivals teach us to reinforce our core values of love, unity, oneness, cultural harmony and environmental preservation. During the festival days, a good aura prevails. These celebrations spread positivity all around. People get absorbed with their good faith, good hope, joy and celebration. In its traditional spirit, I hope that the celebration of Ke-Meh-Ha, this year, will strengthen the fabric of our composite culture and society, the Governor wished.

On this occasion, I join my Idu Mishmi brethren in offering prayers to Divine Mother 'Nanyi Inyitaya' to bless each one of us with her choicest blessings and protect us against the Coronavirus pandemic, the Governor said in his message.
