Governor visits DC office and Jan Suvidha Center

Itanagar, January 16: Arunachal Pradesh Governor Gen JJ Singh, who was on a day-long tour to West Siang district, visited the office complex of the Deputy Commissioner, Aalo on January 15, 2011. West Siang Deputy Commissioner Amjad Tak ushered him around the office complex and showed him the infrastructural improvement done in the office.

Governor, who always makes it a point to visit the office of the District Head during his visits to districts said, "I have visited the DC offices of Anjaw and Tawang and many other offices during my tours and I am very happy that at least assets are being created in the ground. I am sure that these better infrastructural facilities will give the much required impetus to the office environment and also improve the work culture," he hoped. Governor appreciated the initiatives of the Deputy Commissioner and exhorted him to maintain the spirit.

Gen Singh also visited the Jan Suvidha Center, Aalo. Interacting with the officials, Governor expressed happiness on the initiatives of the District Administration to provide speedy, efficient and reliable service to the people through the Computerized Facilitation Centre.

West Siang District Informatics Officer K.C. Wangmo informed that the center is part of E –Governance initiative where all certificates are Computerized and issued through a single window. The Centre Charges a minimum fee for all the services. At present it provided certificates such as Permanent Residence Certificate, Schedule Tribe Certificate, Temporary Residence Certificate and Innerline Permits, she added.

Inaugurated by State Chief Secretary on 20th August 2010, the Jan Suvidha Center, Aalo is a good example of modern corporate office. The center has been constructed using cost affected and eco-friendly materials and ensured maximum utilization of space, informs the RajBhawan release.
