PRESS RELEASE

Let us join in Digital India Mission: Governor

The Governor of Arunachal Pradesh Shri JP Rajkhowa has conveyed his sincere greetings to the people of the State on the occasion of World Computer Literacy Day. He expressed hope that the observation of the Day will motivate the students and youth of the State to take up computer education and various training modules to enhancing their skill in computer application and computer hardware, which, besides making them computer savvy, would improve their employability and also facilitate in transforming India into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy.

In his message on the occasion, the Governor said that computer has revolutionized the communication technology and has become an integral part of good governance. Computers are now an integral part of life and they have gained immense importance in day-to-day activities of the people, government, corporate management etc. They are not only storage devices and processing units, but also are excellent communication media. Computers are the means to access the Internet and get connected to the world. Their increasing utility has made computer education the need of the day.

The Governor urged upon the people to understand the true need of computer education to them and support their children, youths as well as all regardless of age to pursue computer education.

Let us join in Digital India Mission and make Arunachal Pradesh a hundred percent Computer Literacy State and India a fully computer literate nation, the Governor appealed.
