Governor

The Governor of Arunachal Pradesh Lt. General KT Parnaik, PVSM, UYSM, YSM (Retd.) inaugurated the 'Scriptures Gallery' of the Research Institute of World's Ancient Traditions, Cultures and Heritage (RIWATCH) Museum at the RIWATCH, Khinjili, near Roing in Lower Dibang Valley District on 27th October 2024. During his maiden visit to the institute, the Governor, who has been advocating for preservation of local dialects also released Children's book in Kaman Mishmi language, published by the RIWATCH Centre for Mother Languages.

Accompanied by the First Lady of the State Smt Anagha Parnaik, the Governor visited the ethnographic Museum, which exhibits cultural heritage of North East States, with special focus on Arunachal Pradesh and International artifacts. RIWATCH Executive Director Shri Vijay Swami conducted the Governor and the First Lady of the State to the various sections of the museum.

Impressed by the entire display and upkeep which reflect the rich history of the North East and has an international manifestation, the Governor complimented the Executive Director, officers and management of the RIWATCH. He said that, the institute is a 'must visit' place and it will surely find a place on the tourist circuits of Arunachal Pradesh.

The Governor said that the museum is organized professionally and esthetically, featuring the lives of the people of North East and especially from Arunachal Pradesh. He said that the historical data, relics, scripts, implements and wears are very meaningfully displayed.

Lower Dibang Valley District MLAs Shri Mutchu Mithi and Shri Puinnyo Apum along with Deputy Commissioner Smti Soumya Saurabh and Superintendent of Police Shri Tumme Amo were present during the visit.

RIWATCH is a Cultural Research Institute of Northeast India, established in 2009. It is making remarkable contributions towards vibrant culture and sustainable prosperity.
